

BOY STARTS OUT IN WORLD.

Draws Savings From Bank After Failing to Graduate.

Nicholas Pulzone, a sturdy lad of fifteen, failed to graduate last Friday from Public School No. 38, in Sheepshead Bay. He went to his home, No. 1621 Shore Road, ate supper, walked out and has not been seen since. His parents feared he was drowned, but cheered up when they learned that he had drawn $40 of his savings from the postal savings bank at Sheepshead Bay. He had earned the money on the fishing boat New Yorker, and it is thought he has started out to make his fortune.

BRONX PROSECUTOR DEFIES MISS DAVIS IN ISLAND PROBE

District Attorney Declares Conditions Under Her Administration Force Investigation.

District Attorney Martin of the Bronx issued a three hundred word statement to-day in reply to what Katherine B. Davis, Commissioner of Correction, said yesterday concerning his proposed investigation into conditions which made it possible for boys in the House of Refuge on Hart's Island to be poisoned Sunday with drugs stolen from the infirmary of that institution.

"I notice Miss Davis appears to have lost her temper," says the statement. "She has threatened to discharge any employee who informs me of conditions existing on Hart's Island. I wonder what she has to conceal?"

"It is a sad condition of affairs when the District Attorney has to ask permission of Commissioner Davis as to when he may investigate matters coming under his jurisdiction."

Original Home Dressmaking Designs By The Evening World's Fashion Expert

Few Women Can Resist the New 'Sport Clothes' That Need Not Be Worn at Actual Games, but at Any Time in the Morning—Conspicuous Stripes Made Fashionable by the Textile Manufacturers.

Copyright, 1915, by The Evening World, Inc. Whether a woman really indulges in sports does not seem to matter at all as to whether she shall wear sport clothes or not. The awning striped "beach" skirts, the "tennis" shirts and "golf" caps are too alluring for most any woman to resist, let alone the "garden" smocks, &c., very few of which will ever grace the garden to inspire the flowers to grow. Indeed, there never was a wider variety of sport-clothes, and whether this is because we have really grown more athletic or whether the textile manufacturers just thought it about time to launch conspicuous stripes and checks, &c., which are most suitable for sport-clothes, who shall say? But why worry for these clothes are usually becoming to most of us, and we don't truly have to play tennis to wear a cute tennis jumper like the one I have designed for to-day. Like most of the so-called sport-clothes it is good for morning wear, and except for the plaid skirt one would hardly connect it with a tennis net.

SPORT CLOTHES, DESIGNS.

My design to-day adheres to the simplest of lines, but with careful artistry makes the relative proportions of its different pieces to achieve distinction. The pockets, belt, collar and other bits of contrasting colored material, seen at the left as trimming the jumper waist, are worthy of careful attention when copying the model. They may be of dull blue, linen on a white waist, which drops over a skirt of blue and white check or plaid. This is not as plain as the front view makes it seem, for a group of four plaids are laid at the back. The small sailor collar which flares away from the neck may be of sheer organdy, if desired instead of linen, and the sleeves are allowed the same liberty.

In a jumper of flowered cretonne or linen, which would be quite as pretty in reality as it is pictured at the left, sleeves of soft batiste would be a delightful contrast. The pockets and trimming piece which outlines the front opening, however, should be of linen to match the skirt. A rose pink flower with tiny leaves interrupting a black stripe on a white background would be very smart for the jumper material, combined with all white for the rest of the frock. Black trimmed shoes and a simple hat with only a ribbon drawn round the crown would be the appropriate accompaniments.

U. S. CANAL OPENED.

New Water Line in Colorado Will Irrigate 60,000 Acres.

GRAND JUNCTION, Col., June 28.—The so-called High Line Canal, seventy miles long, which is to irrigate more than fifty thousand acres of Government land, was opened here to-day. John J. Fitzgerald, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, started the machinery that opened the head gates from Grand River.

The House Appropriations Committee and a large number of Government officials and citizens witnessed the ceremony. The canal was constructed in four years at a cost of approximately $3,000,000.

Wins Marymount Scholarship. Miss Helen McManus, daughter of James McManus of No. 374 Lenox Road, Brooklyn, is the winner in a competitive examination of the Butler memorial four years' scholarship in Marymount School, at Tarrytown. Miss McManus, who was graduated with honors from Holy Cross School, will begin her studies at Marymount in September.

GIRL KILLED BY TRAIN; COMPANION JUMPS AS WHEELS TEAR SKIRT

Two Had Dodged Under Gates at Hoboken Crossing on Way Home.

Miss Adelaide Cummings, nineteen years old, living with her parents at No. 5 Webster Avenue, Jersey City Heights, was killed at 9 o'clock last night by a West Shore Railroad freight train at the First Street crossing in Hoboken, about three hundred feet from the station.

Miss Christine Springer, eighteen years old, of No. 130 Hopkins Avenue, Jersey City Heights, saved herself by jumping, and fainted beside the rails. Part of the bottom of her skirt was cut off by the engine as it swept by, but she was uninjured.

When the young women reached the crossing the gates had been lowered. They passed beneath the gates and were a part of the six tracks there when Miss Springer saw the headlight of the approaching engine. She tried to drag Miss Cummings from danger, but the latter, frightened and confused, hesitated, and Miss Springer was almost drawn beneath the wheels with her friend, over whom the entire train rumbled.

Police Capt. John Garlick and A. J. Volk, Morguekeeper of Hoboken, had taken the body for removal, when the Jersey City police notified them the accident had occurred inside the Jersey City line, and forbade them to act. After the body had been held for two hours permission was given by the Jersey City police for an undertaker to remove it.

CHILDREN DON'T SEE MAYOR.

Five Hundred Schoolgirls Disappointed in Call at City Hall.

Five hundred schoolgirls, members of the Chelsea Civic League of Public School No. 28, Aiken Civic League of Public School No. 28 and Francis Civic League of Public School No. 168 were greatly disappointed to-day when Mayor Mitchell failed to see them during their call at the City Hall. Mayor Gaynor always made an interesting talk to them when they called.

The children made an impressive picture as they marched through the park carrying American flags and later when they waved the national emblem during the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner." Then they repeated in chorus their pledge to aid the greater city to be greater and cleaner.

Drowned Youth Identified. The body of a young man found in the water off Rockaway Point on June 21 was identified to-day by his father as that of Edward Garely, twenty-one, a cashier, of No. 44 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn.

"You never pay more at Best's" reads all right here in the newspaper. Yes, and that's the new display-card we spoke about, and it reads all right at the very place where it may be most appropriate, too.
